Tokyo War Minister Says Army Not Relaxing Watch Of Reds Due to Violations

General Hata Says Illegal Acts Occur on Borders Other Than Disputed Area in Manchoukuo

Issue Communiqué Breakdown of Negotiations in Manchoukuo Is Listed by Officials

Tokyo, Feb. 1 (AP)—War Minister General Shunroku Hata declared today that Soviet Russia had committed "scores of illegal acts" after conclusion of the truce on the Manchoukuo-Outer Mongolia border and that Japan's army "therefore, is not relaxing its watch."

General Hata made the statement in an address to the opening session of the Diet (Parliament), following the foreign policy report of Hachiro Arita, foreign minister, who expressed Japan's hope of putting her trade relations with the United States back on a treaty basis.

Hata said illegal Russian acts had occurred on borders other than the disputed frontier between Manchoukuo and Outer Mongolia. The foreign office, meanwhile, issued a brief communiqué on the breakdown of Russian-Japanese negotiations at Harbin, Manchoukuo, reporting that the mixed boundary commission had decided to adjourn and leave the question of demarcation "to be decided at a later date." A total of 16 meetings had left the conference still in disagreement.

British Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Cragie was given Japan's reply to the British note of January 27 answering the Japanese protest against seizure of 21 Germans from the Japanese liner Asama Maru.

A foreign office statement said both notes would be published when the British had had time to consider.

Arita's address canvassed the whole range of Japan's international relations. Unlike last year, when the Diet applauded wildly over Japan's "new order" in East Asia, Arita's summary was met with dead silence.

No Hint of Plans Although the foreign minister gave no hint of immediate plans for the future, Premier Mitsumasa Yonai declared the government was attempting to expedite enforcement of a planned economy in Manchoukuo and China in accordance with the "new order."

Yonai, in his opening speech, called on the people to meet all contingencies as the government completed plans to rush nearly 1,000,000 tons of coal to power electricity generators and relieve a power famine which has crippled the nation's huge industrial machine. The power shortage is ascribed partly to a tie-up in coal transport because of wartime demands on shipping.

"It is natural when we are engaged in a stupendous enterprise unparalleled in history," the premier declared, "that the people should be forced to endure restrictions that might well be intolerable in normal times."

"I hope that nation will keep alive its wartime consciousness to the fullest degree."

Foreign Minister Arita outlined among general themes of Japanese foreign policy.

The United States: Arita expressed hope that a new treaty could be concluded to the day-to-day status of Japanese-American trade as a result of the United States' abrogation last Friday of the 1911 commercial treaty with Japan.

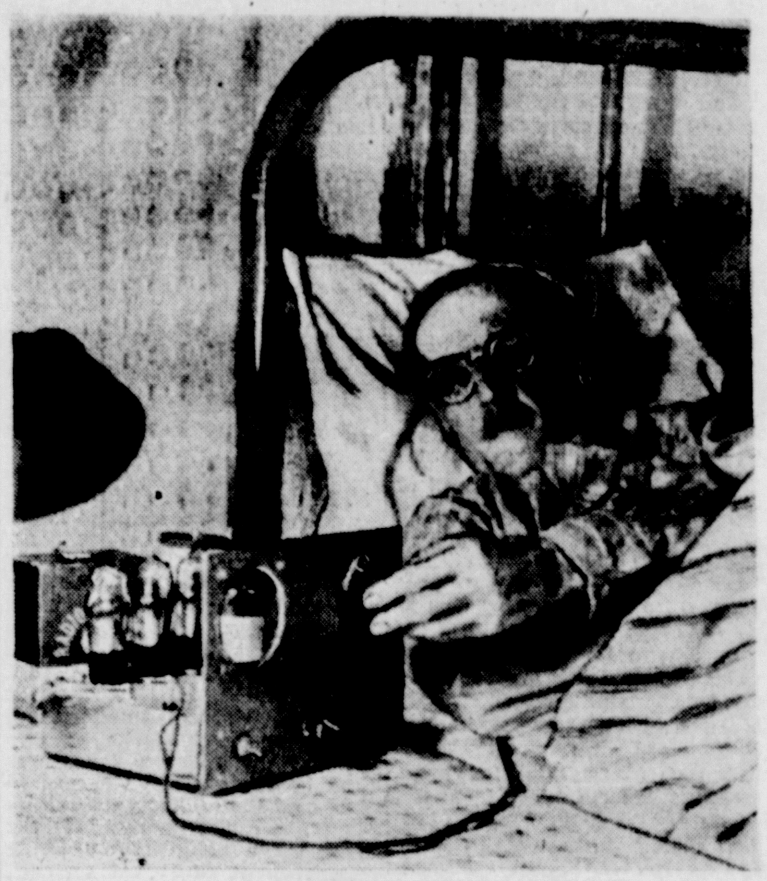

"The treatyless situation, which deprives trade of stability and makes relations in general difficult, is not desirable for either Japan or America," he said. "We propose to exert further efforts in the confident hope that Japanese-American relations will be restored to a normal status, that is to say, on a treaty basis."

Third powers in China: The foreign minister disavowed any Japanese intention to eliminate "legitimate rights and interests of the United States and other third powers."

In connection with the new order in East Asia, he said, "I would like to add that although there are some who suspect Japan of an intention to eliminate the rights and interests of third powers in China, the Japanese government, as has been repeatedly announced, has absolutely no desire to do away with the rights and interests of third powers in China."

"We are, in fact, anxious to see the development of China's trade with other powers and welcome foreign investments in China as long as they are of purely economic character. And that, I am confident, is also the wish of the new (Wang Ching-Wei) central government of China about to be established."

Pratt's Patent Is Victory Over Fractured Vertebrae Ellenville Inventor, Bed-Ridden More Than 17 Years, Has Tried to Create Career in Radio

RODNEY F. PRATT

Ellenville, Feb. 1 — Bed-ridden for more than 17 years with a spinal injury, Rodney F. Pratt of Ellenville has won a brilliant victory over almost impossible odds in obtaining a patent which many experts believe may revolutionize the radio industry.

His new basic radio circuit, controlling regeneration, has been sought by skilled technicians for years and may bring a fortune to its inventor to climax a dramatic story of human courage in face of bitter frustration.

Mr. Pratt was a vigorous young man when his promising career with a leading oil company was blasted by tragedy. He suffered a fall in 1922—the result was fractured vertebrae and he has been

Business Men to Decide Monday Whether They Will Join Association

Meeting Will Be Held at Albany and Group Will Attend; Must Know Program

Monday will bring definite word as to whether or not Ulster county will function as a permanent unit in the West of the Hudson Association, James H. Betts, of the committee on the proposal, announced this morning at a meeting of the Uptown Business Men's Association.

A meeting which is expected to bring a decision by the local group will be held at Albany Monday, and then, Mr. Betts said, a more comprehensive plan, outlining the objectives and purpose of the valley-wide organization will be presented.

Mr. Betts, Albert Kurdt, farm bureau manager, John A. Sauer of Saugerties, Reuben A. Benson of

Barrymore Is Back on Old Broadway And Encounters His Estranged Wife

New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—John Barrymore, the great ad libber, is back in town, but he doesn't ad lib here any more.

Broadway's playgoers obviously were licking their chops last night for some of the impromptu wise cracks that marked the long Chicago run of the farce, "My Dear Children," but the unpredictable Barrymore fooled them by playing his leading role mostly "straight." It was his first Broadway appearance in more than 15 years.

Early today, he left a cabaret (the Monte Carlo) with Elaine Barrie, his estranged wife, and that started tongues wagging as to possible renewal of their tempestuous romance.

Elaine was in the restaurant when Barrymore and his daughter, Diana, arrived after his show. She came over to their table, and Diana left it, in somewhat of a huff, spectators thought.

Barrymore's father and daughter went into a huddle, and emerged beaming. Soon after John and Elaine left in a taxicab.

Air Corps Having Trouble Finding Pilots to Train

Officials Say 396 Young Men Qualified to Take Training Are Located With Difficulty

Many Are Students Potential Fliers Are Kept Busy in Colleges, U. S. Reports

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—The rapidly growing army air corps is experiencing momentary trouble in finding the future pilots to fly the 6,000 planes authorized under last year's $300,000,000 expansion program.

Emphasizing that the difficulty was only seasonal, officials said today that despite appeals by Secretary Woodring the requisite 396 qualified young men were obtained with difficulty for the group to start training this month. Scores more are needed to fill the two classes to follow at six-week intervals. Beginning in June, however, no further difficulty is anticipated because, months in advance, 250 already have qualified for that group.

The principal trouble is that the future army fliers are recruited largely from colleges, and students will not be free from their studies until early summer.

Rigid Tests Another difficulty is that rigid physical tests weed out two-thirds or more of those who have the necessary two years of college training or its equivalent. The eyesight is not keen enough, or they fail to react properly to tests of their nervous reactions.

Aside from the temporary difficulty, the experiment of using civilian schools for the first third of the pilots' training was said by Brigadier General Barton K. Yount, assistant air corps chief, to have "exceeded our highest expectations."

Nearly 2,000 men between 20 and 27 have started the training, but some 40 per cent, as anticipated, have failed to complete the elementary three-month course in the nine civilian schools and have been "washed out."

Most of the successful ones have been promoted to the second three-month stage of basic training at Randolph Field, Texas. Those remaining in the first class, which started the grind last July 1, will finish the final intensive training as fledglings at Kelly Field, Texas, on March 23.

They will be given their wings, commissioned as second lieutenants in the air corps reserve, and assigned to operating squadrons, but their schooling will continue even further. There will be three months of post-graduate experience as pursuit, bombardment or observation pilots.

It takes two years to make a really capable military flier, by the estimate of Major General Henry H. Arnold, air corps chief.

Out of a total of 4,356 undertaking the special training by the time the air corps settles back to its normal routine next September 28, only 2,288 will graduate, officials have figured.

They are expected to increase

River Industries Turn to Reservoir To Maintain Flow

Hudson Drops From 1,200 to 350 Cubic Feet Per Second; Is Sufficient Until March Thaw

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 1 (AP)—Hudson river industries turned today to the huge Sacandaga reservoir to keep wheels turning as contrasting drought and flood fears marked upstate weather.

With central New York engineers preparing for potential flood problems, the flow of the Hudson river dropped from a seasonal normal of 1,200 to 350 cubic feet of water per second.

Edward H. Sargent, chief engineer of the Hudson river regulating district board, said between 1,700 and 1,900 cubic feet of water per second is being released into the river from the reservoir, constructed for just such an emergency as this one.

"This is turning the wheels of industry," he said. "The present flow of the river would not be enough to keep them operating more than a fraction of capacity."

Acute drought during the last six months has dropped the level of the 27-mile long reservoir about 30 feet. Approximately five feet remains, and Sargent predicted this would be sufficient until spring runoffs begin in March.

Four Are Felled By Coal Gas Fumes

Furnace Seepage Sunday Morning Almost Fatal to Local Residents

Four persons were overcome by the fumes of coal gas seeping from the furnace in the cellar at the home of Mrs. Cora H. Ackery, 390 Albany avenue, on Sunday morning and were revived by Dr. John B. Krom, assisted by the crew in charge of the emergency truck of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., who had responded to a call for aid.

The four overcome by the coal gas were Mrs. Ackery, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Harper and their young son, Elwood. All four have since recovered and are up and around the house.

Mrs. Ackery conducts a rooming house on Albany avenue and she said today that none of the guests were overcome by gas as the registers in their bedrooms

Hurley's New Postmistress

Mrs. Kathryn Harford, new postmistress of Hurley officially assumed her duties today in the Elmendorf store, where Peter Elmendorf, proprietor of the store and retired postmaster, had served the village for 29 years. Mr. Elmendorf was commissioned by Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock during the Taft administration, on August 7, 1914. Prior to his appointment as postmaster, Mr. Elmendorf also served as an assistant for several years under Charles Dumond. Above Mrs. Harford is shown assorting a few pieces of mail as Mr. Elmendorf looks on. Story on page seven.

3,700 Persons Get Security Payments From Government

First Monthly Benefits Go to Wage Earners of 65 or Over and to Others Who Are Eligible

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—About 3,700 workers and their dependents scattered across the country collected today the first monthly benefits on federal old age insurance.

The postman's ring, bringing the social security check, will become a familiar routine on the first of every month in thousands of homes. The recipients are wage earners of 65 or over who have retired, along with their widows, children or dependent parents.

Social security checks have been sent out before as lump sum settlements to estates of deceased workers or to those who were born too soon to qualify for monthly benefits under the original act.

The monthly checks range as high as $42 for married couples who are 65 or over, and somewhat less for single workers. The prospective average is $39 for married couples and $25 for unmarried workers. A wife and children are entitled to supplement benefits.

Batch Not Large

The first batch of claims certified to the treasury for payment was not large in view of the social security board estimate that benefits would be distributed this year to 912,000 workers.

The old age insurance system has enrolled more than 47,000,000 workers, and the volume of distribution is expected to increase each month.

Out of 14,000 claims approved for payment in January most were held up until the government deducted the amount once remitted as a lump sum settlement. These beneficiaries belong to the group regarded as too old to accumulate the necessary wage credit in the early years of the system to qualify for monthly retirement annuities.

Linsig Is Forced To File Pauper Oath

The high cost of special care required for a five-year-old son born without an esophagus, has forced Raymond Linsig of Marlborough, who earns $3.20 a day for two days a week as a cement mixer, to file a pauper's oath and a bankruptcy petition, the Associated Press reports.

Physicians constantly have cared for the child, who has attracted wide attention in medical circles.

Linsig, who lives in Marlborough, told the federal court yesterday he had $1,437.68 in liabilities, including $1,312.68 owed for hospital and physicians' services. He said he was able to supply only sufficient food for his wife and another child, because of his scant wages.

He said he had lost his home in 1937 because of failure to pay interest on a mortgage and taxes.

Kiwanis to Hold Installation Rites

Service Club Members and Guests Will Dine; Haven Will Be Speaker

This evening Kingston Kiwanians and their guests will meet for dinner at the Governor Clinton Hotel and at the conclusion of the meal the officers of the Kingston Kiwanis Club for the year 1940 will be installed with appropriate ceremony.

The address of the evening will be given by international trustee, Franklin C. Haven, attorney, of New York city, who has served as district governor of the entire State of New York in Kiwanis. At the present time Mr. Haven is on the board of international trustees of the association.

In addition to the installation ceremony, a musical program will be rendered at which William

Texas' Youngest Quadruplets Have Sniffling Good Time on Birthday

Galveston, Tex., Feb. 1 (AP)—Texas' youngest quadruplets had a sniffling good time on their first birthday.

A seige of colds prevented the Badgett quads—Joan, Geraldine, Jeanette and Joyce—from having a party, but they were "at home" to the public as usual during the regular visiting hours and each got a birthday cake.

Each had her name lengthened, received a scholarship to Baylor University and the fund being raised here to build them a special home came within $100 of the amount needed.

The four little girls, with a combined birth weight of less than 16 pounds, are normal and healthy in every respect. Geraldine is the largest, tipping the beams at 26. She also is the friendliest to visitors who call at the home to look at the babies through a large window.

The other three weigh 18 pounds each and are so nearly alike that only their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ellis Badgett, and a few relatives can tell them apart.

Henceforth each of the quads will have the middle name "Baylor" because their birthday falls on the same day as Baylor University's. President Pat Neff of the university presented scholarships to the babies and suggested they all be given the added name.

A fund of $2,900 is being raised to build the home. The Chamber of Commerce, sponsoring the project, has a contract with Mr. and Mrs. Badgett to keep the babies there until they are 18 years old.

There is one other set of quadruplets in Texas—the Perricou boys of Beaumont. They call them A, B, C and D.

Senate Committee Quotes Moore and Hackworth With Result Bank Might Get More Money

Calls It Support

LaFollette Has Feeling That State Department Views Loan Favorably

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—State department authorities were quoted by members of the Senate foreign relations committee today as holding that a non-military loan to Finland would not violate international law.

In view of this testimony, by Counselor R. Walton Moore and Solicitor Green H. Hackworth, it appeared probable that the committee would vote to increase the capital of the export-import bank by $50,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Such an increase would pave the way for a new loan to Finland and possibly increase the credits China could obtain, to help them in their struggles with Russia and Japan, respectively.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, said he hoped the committee could complete work on the bill to increase the bank's capital this week so that it could be taken up in the Senate at once.

Senator LaFollette (Prog., Wis.) said he got the impression from testimony this morning that the state department was giving its tacit support to the pending loan bill.

Expresses Opposition

In a related field of foreign relations, Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) expressed opposition "except as a last resort" to "any one-sided embargo against Japan."

"We may come to an embargo," Vandenberg said in a letter to Walter Lippmann, newspaper columnist, "and Japan is ill advised if it ignores this hazard. But we have not reached 'the last resort' until we have exhausted every reasonable effort to write a new treaty."

The Michigan senator asserted that the purpose of the resolution he offered last July calling for abrogation of the United States commercial treaty with Japan, was to make possible a new treaty and not to make possible an embargo. The United States subsequently abrogated the treaty.

Chairman Pittman (D., Nev.) of the Senate foreign relations committee has proposed giving the President discretionary power to embargo shipments to Japan of certain war materials which might be used in prosecuting the war with China.

One administration supporter said that strong sentiment had developed, in connection with export-import bank credits, for altering a limitation of $30,000,000 on the cumulative total which could be lent to any one borrower.

Finland already has obtained $10,000,000 in credits, and China has a loan of $25,000,000 outstanding.

To get around this, some committee members were reported to be studying a proposed $30,000,000 limit on loans obtained after January 1, 1940, without regard to the bank's past commitments.

There still was opposition to the bill, however. Senator Harrison (D., Miss.) held to his suggestion that the Finns try to sell bonds to private investors in this country instead of seeking a government loan.

Calls It 'Subterfuge'

Senator Van Nuys (D., Ind.) called the bill a "subterfuge" and asserted that lending money to a country involved in a conflict would be "the first step toward our entry into another foreign war."

As soon as the committee disposes of the bank bill, it is expected to consider proposals to embargo shipment of raw materials to Japan.

Chairman Pittman (D., Nev.) asserted that if the United States yields to the "present threats" of Japanese officials, there will be no end to its abandonment of the rights of American citizens in the Far East.

Pittman obviously was angered by a statement of a Tokyo spokesman that the granting by Congress to the President of discretionary power to restrict American exports to Japan would be considered a "serious affront."

The statement was made by Yakichiro Suma, foreign office spokesman, in commenting on legislation which Pittman is advocating.

"It is strange indeed," Pittman told reporters, "that a delegation by Congress to the President of a discretionary power enjoyed by the executives of practically every government in the world should be considered an affront to Japan."

Financial and Commercial

Stocks Continue
Move Downward

With transactions totaling 610,000 shares Wednesday, stocks continued to move downward in dealing on the New York Exchange, although price changes were unimportant in most cases. There was activity in a few of the lower priced issues and Left advanced to new high ground, one of 13 stocks that made new highs for the year. Industrial stock as measured in the Dow-Jones averages dropped for the fourth consecutive day, showing a net loss of 30 point, to 145.33; rails were off .16, to 30.56 and utilities lost another .23 point, to 24.70.

Most commodities rose moderately and the index showed a gain of .15 point for the day. Silk futures rallied and prices advanced to points 30 to 35 cents a pound above Monday's lows. Leading cane sugar refiners withdrew their offer to book refined sugar at a basis of 4.50 cents a pound, specified monthly deliveries, until June 30. Raw sugar at present is on a basis of 2.10 cents, duty free. Western beet sugar companies are currently quoting 4.30 cents on a prompt shipment basis. Wheat moved irregularly and futures closed off 1/2 to 3/4 cent a bushel at Chicago. Corn closed 1/2 to 3/4 cent lower. After early gains of 50 cents a bale cotton figures closed one to six points off. Trading in Worth Street continued small.

Most corporate bonds remained about unchanged, in quiet trading. U. S. Treasuries improved, Scandinavian obligations worked lower in quiet dealings with Finnish six down nearly two points.

Abroad London and Paris markets were off and Amsterdam closed irregular. Of interest is announcement of unrepaid rise in sale of government "Baby bonds." The treasury is reported to have raised about $250,000,000 in new cash from sale of these bonds during January, sales being about 85 per cent above those for January last year. January normally is the peak month for such purchases, but if the rate of increase during last year continues receipts from this source are expected to be a big feature in filling the Treasury's cash requirements for the balance of the fiscal year.

Reports of companies earnings for 1939 continue to show improvement, in most cases, over 1938. Some reports:

Wheeling Steel, net of $5,560,755 in 1939 vs. net of $493,138 in 1938. Republic Steel, net of $10,671,343, vs. loss year ago of $7,997,825. Deere & Co., net of $7,627,355 vs. $9,469,931. Illinois Central, $2,335,775, vs. $1,222,874. General Railway Signal, net of $247,593, vs. loss year ago of $133,352. Skelly Oil, $2,360,783 vs. $2,650,054. U. S. Leather, net of $150,571 (year ended October 31) vs. loss in preceding year of $1,669,524. S. H. Kress, net of $4,963,870, vs. $3,668,216. Bigelow-Sanford Carpet, net of $2,180,344, vs. loss of $1,491,032 in 1938. Real Silk Hosiery, $1,693,536, vs. $1,119,018.

Continental Motors has unfilled orders of $6,424, the largest in many years, according to President Reese.

With sharp gain in earnings during the final quarter of 1939 bolstering their cash positions many companies are taking the opportunity to reduce debts, paying back dividends and cash loans and retiring senior shares. Others are proceeding with retooling programs which had been held up and January machine tool orders have been holding at the December level and well above a year ago.

'Little Eva' Is 92
Harvard, Mass., Feb. 1 (AP)—Mrs. Cordelia Howard MacDonald, who played "Little Eva" in the first performance of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" back in 1852 when she was four years old, observed her 92nd birthday today at the home of a niece.

ity. They were paid off with lump sums in 1937 and 1938, but the changes in the law last summer gave them the chance to qualify for monthly benefits.

Among the claims filed were listed those of 2,717 widows, 1,446 children, six widows over 65, 174 younger widows, two dependent parents and 141 lump sum death claims.

In most cases, only death or a return to work on a job covered by the law will interrupt the flow of checks to retired wage earners. Widows who remarry will forfeit the payments.

Conspiracy Is Charged
New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—An indictment charging a conspiracy to print bonds of fictitious companies with a face value of more than $3,000,000 and to offer them as collateral to secure loans was filed today in federal court. The loans never were consummated, however, the government said.

The government claimed the author of the scheme was Frederick J. McDermott, identified by federal authorities as a son of Leo J. McDermott, a former director of the city budget in the administration of Mayor LaGuardia.

Rejects Demand
London, Feb. 1 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain in the House of Commons today rejected an opposition demand that he include an economic "dictator" in his war cabinet.

Helsinki, Feb. 1 (AP)—President Kivisto Kallio in an impassioned speech in a solemn final session of the war diet repeated today Finland's offer to negotiate "an honorable peace" with Russia but said that Finland would not bend before "imperialistic aims."

"We are forced to destroy people innocent of this war, people we have no reason to hate as a nation," the president said.

"For this reason we regard this barbarous attack as senseless and are ready to negotiate an honorable peace."

The aged, white-haired President, speaking with a firm voice, expressed Finland's thanks for humanitarian help made by the United States and added:

"We sincerely hope the term humanitarian help may be made to cover civilian air defense and anti-aircraft equipment and that such help might be given us for protection of the population behind the front from an aggressor who uses the air force in a most inhuman manner against civilians."

Kallio mentioned particularly "our neighbor Sweden" who, he said, "has shown her identity of fate with us."

In addition to her bountiful material help, well-equipped volunteer forces have come from there to help us."

He reviewed the negotiations preceding the invasion of Finland by Soviet Russia and said Finland was ready to make "even heavy sacrifices to preserve peace" but two weeks after the negotiations came to a standstill "the Soviet government unilaterally violated every agreement concluded with Finland and invaded our country."

British Give Up All Gold
At Request of Government

LONDON.—Answering the call of the government for foreign exchange, gold, coins and bullion, thousands of persons have entered the Bank of England to give up articles ranging from $50,000 in bar gold to an American dollar gold piece.

Even statuettes, metal paperweights and ashtrays are being taken through the impressive portals of the bank. Pink-coated bank messengers are directing all persons with such offerings to the foreign exchange department.

Some people, apparently guided by their conscience, have arrived with pockets full of French centimes, Italian lire and Scandinavian ore.

Inquiries have been received from persons who have coins attached to their watch-chains, necklaces and bracelets. All have been told to surrender such coins, no matter what the sentimental value may be.

Kingston Lodge, No. 970, Loyal Order of Moose, will meet in regular communication on Thursday evening. Many important matters, including a report from the building committee relative to new developments will be discussed. Several other matters of equal importance will be brought before the attention of the members and a full attendance is requested. Following the business session, refreshments will be served.

France Eases Mind
Of Poilu at FrontFamily Cares Are Assumed
By the Government.

PARIS.—The French soldier at the front in this war will not have to worry about his family as did his predecessor of 1914. A society has been formed to look after the family of the poilu who has had to leave home. If his wife is going to have a baby, the soldier will have the assurance that she and her child will be looked after carefully. If he has a father and mother, who have looked to him for support in their old age, the soldier knows that they will not be in want.

The organization that has been formed to care for the dependents of French soldiers is called the "Work of Mutual Assistance in the Army." It was founded in February, 1939, by Prime Minister Edouard Daladier, who also is minister of war. It springs from his knowledge of the needs of the soldier that he acquired in the World war, when he was an infantryman. A society established for this purpose was set up late in the World war, and then it did not discharge its mission efficiently.

The new organization is a sort of "roof" society, uniting the mutual aid societies and military homes that have been operating throughout France and in her overseas colonies. "Foyers Militaires," which correspond roughly to the Y. M. C. A. huts which were set up for American troops, are to be established in every corps of the French army. These "foyers" will serve as recreation and social centers. They will consist of a recreation hall equipped with billiard tables, wireless sets, gramophones and chess tables, a reading and writing room, barber shop and a hall for theatricals and motion pictures.

Funeral services for George Davis, late of New York city, were held Wednesday afternoon at the W. N. Conner Funeral Home. The Rev. Arthur G. Carroll of St. James Methodist Church officiated, assisted by the Rev. H. H. Williams of the Church of the Nazarene. Interment was in Hurley cemetery, bearers being Charles, William, Joseph and Louis Davis, brothers of the deceased. Mr. Davis was a veteran of Co. K, 12th regiment of infantry, Spanish-American war, and at the conclusion of the services at the grave a volley was fired by a squad of veterans in charge of Acting Sergeant Abram Singer, other members of the firing squad being LeRoy Gooding, William Duffy, Al Melville, Gus Paulson, Roy Jacob and Vice-Commander John Cleveland. Tapes were sounded by Frank Sass.

Howard J. Furman, a well known and highly respected resident of this city, died yesterday afternoon following a brief illness. He was born in Connelly the son of the late Edward and Jennie DeGraff Furman and came to reside in this city 20 years ago. He was an electrician and of late years had specialized in the electrical equipment for oil burners and stokers. He was a loving and devoted husband and father and by his genial disposition had made many friends in this community. Besides his wife, who was Ethel Purvis, he leaves one daughter, Adele Furman at home and one sister, Mrs. Arthur Kelsey, of Lanesville. The funeral will be held from his late home, 203 Abel street, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in the family plot in Montrose cemetery.

West Hudson Wide Scope, Broad Aims Told to Rotarians

Charles Evans, president of the West of the Hudson Association, stated Wednesday before the local Rotary Club that the association is rapidly attracting not only residents within the area it serves but even outside the state.

Mr. Evans' remarks brought out numerous facts pertaining to the Catskills and the various river valleys in the district sponsored by the association.

He spoke in part as follows: The Bureau of State Publicity expresses the feeling that the Catskill region and the Susquehanna, Delaware, Neversink and Hudson River valleys have been slow in formulating a regional-promotion association in order to take full advantage of state-wide advertising, as done by the bureau.

Philip Florman, representing the bureau, in an address to the board of directors and several guests, of the newly formed West of the Hudson Association, at a recent meeting in Monticello, made several pertinent statements, all of which were constructive and well placed.

"It is surprising that while other regions of the state have been successful central organizations to attract the vacationist, the Catskills and Hudson river valley have, up to now, been rather slow in getting started," said Mr. Florman.

Spend Over Half Billion
In 1938 the sum of $584,277,000 was spent by recreation-seekers in New York state, and it is estimated that when all figures are analyzed, 1939 will show at least a 20 per cent increase over the previous year. "Very frankly, gentlemen, we in the Bureau of State Publicity would like to see you get your rightful share of this vacation money," said Mr. Florman.

"We feel safe in predicting that the vacationist-tourist business is going to become even bigger, for at least two reasons: The wars in Europe, and because America today is thoroughly vacation-minded."

Relative to the size of regional associations and the area to be covered, Mr. Florman suggested: "The Bureau of State Publicity has found that the bigger the organization and the larger the territory included in its jurisdiction, the better are the results for all concerned."

Nine Counties Included
The West of the Hudson Association includes nine counties: Otsego, Schoharie, Albany, Delaware, Greene, Sullivan, Ulster, Orange and Rockland; and actually one-sixth of the entire state—8½ thousand square miles, to be exact. Certainly this is a territory vast enough to carry great weight and derive unlimited benefits from the over $200,000,000 yearly advertising campaign, under direction of the Bureau of State Publicity, and supervised by Director Allan Reagan—spoken of by news writers as "New York's No. 1 Salesman."

It would seem to go without saying that the West of the Hudson Association is in an enviable position for real achievement. Its board of directors consists of five men, or women, from each of the counties in the group, thus assuring each community fair and unbiased representation. If each of the various chambers of commerce, boards of trade, hotel associations, auto clubs, resort groups and the numerous other bureaus and organizations, will get firmly back of the association, a greatly increased financial income to the area—as a whole, and also to the separate communities, is almost a foregone positive assurance.

Benefit From State Publicity
The state's wholesale advertising cannot be so broken down as to be of definite benefit to local centers, whereas, through the efforts of the West of the Hudson Association, even the state can and its way clear so to embody the region in its pictorial and printed publicity, as to almost direct the traveler to the region in which we are so definitely interested. It behooves us, therefore, to continue to develop local organizations, such as will properly function with the larger, or parent organization—the West of the Hudson Association.

Together we will have such strength as cannot be overridden, and we are bound to bring into the district untold beneficial improvement, not only along the lines of recreation, but also in each of the other phases.

Guests at the luncheon held at the Governor Clinton Hotel were Rotarians Joseph McCausland of Newburgh and John Wright of Scotia, and the parent organization— the West of the Hudson Association.

Two Men Are Fined!
Frank Harmon, 66, of Newark, N. J., and James Cahill, 62, of New York city, were both fined $3 when they pleaded guilty to charges of public intoxication when arraigned before Judge Cahill in police court this morning.

Milwaukee's Blind Bowlers
The Friday night scene at a Milwaukee bowling alley differs little from the ordinary night in this center of the tennis sport, but the bowlers are blind. Each man steps surely to the racks, balances a ball carefully to be sure he has the right one, steps into position, strides forward and shoots the ball down the alley.

Then the visitors notice there's no cheering for a strike until an attendant calls out: "A strike, Jim!" Or perhaps the kegler gets a bad split, and when the numbers of the pins left standing are called there's a sympathetic moan. Bowling and other sports are helping to rebuild the confidence of the 26 members of the Milwaukee Athletic Club for the Blind. The night that Walter Wenzel bowled a 207 game, for instance, marked another triumph and gave his sightless comrades a new goal. Bowling, swimming and gymnastics are their favorite sports, but the members also have tried golf and a modified form of baseball.

More than half the population of Panama is of mixed race.

More Than $900 Pledged

Ellenville, Feb. 1.—Chairman R. A. Benson said today that over $900 had been pledged in the Veterans Memorial Hospital drive for funds. "Everything is going very nicely," added Mr. Benson, "and it seems almost certain that we shall reach our goal of $5,000. Ellenville residents are showing the same generous spirit and community spirit for which they are noted."

The annual modern and old-fashioned dance sponsored by the Progressive Club will be held Friday evening at the Kozy Tavern, Foxhall avenue and Derrenbacher street.

Fresh Stencils Important
A merchant employing a stencil duplicator to print his advertising letters and circulars is frequently asked how he repeatedly obtains such clear and uniform copies. In explanation he emphasizes the use of fresh stencils. Typing or tracing cannot be done effectively on an old stencil because the wax-like composition of the stencil has become too dry and tough. If stencils are used only occasionally, so that it is impossible to keep a fresh supply at hand, he advises keeping the unused stencils on a shelf in the cellar or basement where humidity and temperature are usually much more uniform than on the upper floors of a store or office building. If this method is impossible the package of stencils should be kept in an air-tight box.

Closet Lights Prove Helpful
Proper lighting for the closets in a home is a necessity often overlooked but one which can prove a bothersome nuisance. Solution to the problem is a single one through selection from many available methods. A ceiling light in a closet may have a pull chain or wall switch. This light may be forgotten, however, and burn for hours. A switch outside the closet door may be equipped with a pilot light which glows red when the light in the closet is on. Another satisfactory method is installation of a door switch which automatically turns the light in the closet off when the door is closed. A light which burns for a stated time and then automatically turns off is still another satisfactory method of closet lighting.

DOG POUND NEEDED

Although the city charter gives the Common Council the authority to establish a dog pound in Kingston that authority has not been exercised in over a quarter of a century, with the exception of a few months in 1928, during an outbreak of rabies among dogs in the city.

During the 1928 outbreak a dog pound was established in Forsyth Park, and two dog catchers employed. They impounded a total of 73 dogs, of which number 43 were gas-captured, 25 were redeemed by the owners and five were still in the pound at the time the report was made to the health board in March of that year.

The two dog catchers worked on a fee basis, but became discouraged because they were unable to impound as many dogs as expected.

That there is a need for such a pound is shown by the figures released by the city authorities following a conference held earlier in the week at which time it was stated that there were some 400 unlicensed dogs running at large in the city.

As a result of that conference it was announced that the aldermen would be asked at the February meeting to establish a dog pound and appoint a dog warden, whose duties it would be to impound all unlicensed dogs found running at large in the city.

For a number of years there have been complaints lodged with the police department regarding the barking of dogs at night and also of damage done to gardens, lawns and shrubbery. In but few cases have the owners of the destructive dogs been made to pay for the damage done by the animals.

In 1928 during the rabies outbreak the health board adopted a regulation that required all dogs while on the street to be either muzzled or kept on a leash. As far as the records show this regulation was never rescinded, and is still effective, although it is not enforced.

Kingston has a population of approximately 28,000, and according to the police census there are approximately 1,900 to 2,000 dogs in the city. While there are many people who love dogs it should not be forgotten that the other residents of Kingston who do not own a dog are entitled to some consideration also, and undoubtedly they would welcome the establishing of a dog pound where unlicensed dogs could be disposed of and not allowed to roam streets, making a nuisance of themselves.

During the year the police department also receives many reports of adults and children being bitten by dogs at large on the streets. Fortunately no cases of rabies has developed recently.

In the 1928 outbreak, as far as known, the only fatality was a child residing in Glasco.

It is expected that the aldermen will comply with the request, taking forward steps to provide for a dog warden and establishing a dog pound.

If the figures given out by the city authorities as to the number of unlicensed dogs is correct there seems to be no question but that a dog pound should be established. There appears to be an urgent need for it.

HOME-GROWN NUTS

A gardening editor advises home-owners to plant nut trees as well as fruit trees on their land. They produce a crop with high food value and are, at the same time, beautiful and interesting. Most nut trees will mature their fruit anywhere that the Concord grape ripens, which means they may be raised over a large part of the country.

There is another good point about nut trees which will appeal to the busy person. They are relatively free from pests and diseases and consequently require less spraying than fruit trees. It is a good plan, he tells his readers, to buy named varieties from growers who specialize in nut trees. Cultivation produces nuts superior to the wild ones. The planter can find out from his nurseryman what trees are best to plant in his locality and soil and how to take care of them.

Here is a project that will interest the children in any family. It's great fun to harvest a nut crop on a fine autumn day. And it's fun later on to crack the nuts for homemade fudge, ice cream or cake. A child loves to own a tree planted especially for him. Why not do a little backyard foresting?

CIVILIZING CITY TRAFFIC

We people who make up the "general public" are all dumb in some ways, but we can learn. Even as dumb pedestrians, we can master the art of crossing streets, and walking safely on wet or icy sidewalks, and observing traffic lights, and not bumping into people, and being alert and aware of our surroundings when we're moving around in public places.

And the development of these civilized habits can be helped much by organized efforts of city officials and traffic officers. The American Automobile Association speaks especially of the good work done in recent years in helping first drivers, and then pedestrians, by means of warnings and guide signs showing them clearly where to drive and what lane or what turn to use.

In this work, signs painted on the pavement often help as much as the traffic lights do. The herding of pedestrians in the right directions on crowded streets is almost an art in itself. When once mastered, it adds immensely to the safety and convenience of the public in getting around town.

A little jocular appeal to human nature always helps, too. "Jeepers Creepers, Use Your Peepers!" reads a sign in one city's seething public square. In St. Petersburg, Fla., visitors find signs like "Slow Down and Pass Up Accidents" and "Be Good to Yourself; Please Don't Jaywalk!"

It's one of the vices of our American system that a vice president is usually an afterthought.

"Canada Orders Election on War." Ballots for bullets.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.) IS IT A COLD OR THE FLU?

Before the great influenza epidemic of 1918-19, a cold in the head was called a cold, but now it is not unusual for many to tell their friends and neighbors that they have just had an attack of influenza, when, as a matter of fact, they have been suffering with just "the common cold."

Of course, it does not really matter whether the symptoms were due to influenza or to a cold, because the treatment should be the same for both ailments—rest in bed and applications of heat by various methods.

However, influenza is the more serious condition because it causes greater and more prolonged prostration, more likelihood of complications, and leaves organisms in the body (particularly in the sinuses) after the symptoms have disappeared. And these organisms in the sinuses can be made active very easily by dampness and exposure to cold and dust.

How are you to know whether the symptoms—sneezing, chills, fever—are due to influenza or the common cold.

In the absence of an epidemic of influenza, it should be remembered that the common cold is given its name because it is so common—the commonest ailment known.

The early symptoms of the common cold are sneezing, burning and stuffiness of the nose, first a thin watery discharge which "thickens" and "plugs" the nose, making it difficult to breathe. Symptoms come on gradually, and patient is not greatly prostrated.

The early symptoms of influenza are different in that the symptoms come on suddenly; perhaps one or two days after exposure the patient may fall from severe prostration.

The cough in influenza is hard and dry, and little or nothing is brought up from bronchial tubes even after a severe coughing spell, whereas in the common cold, as noted above, there is first a profuse watery discharge from the nose and later the patient is able to cough up thick mucus. The voice is usually more affected by a cold than by influenza.

The suddenness and the great prostration then are the outstanding symptoms in influenza.

However, whether symptoms are due to the common cold or to influenza, the treatment is the same—rest and heat. The same complications—bronchitis, pneumonia, and broncho-pneumonia—can develop from either a cold or influenza.

The Common Cold
Everyone has likely suffered at one time or another from a common, everyday cold, yet this same common cold may prove very dangerous if neglected.

Send for Dr. Barton's timely booklet entitled "The Common Cold" (No. 104), enclosing ten cents to cover cost of handling and mention the Kingston Daily Freeman. The address: The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

The object was the remains of a safe that had been stolen the night before from a restaurant and taken to the field to be battered open. About $400 had been taken from it, but the burglars left a couple of bottles of Chinese herbs, which the safe also had contained, in the field.

Dr. O. G. McConnell, San Jose, Calif., giving a man a sanity test in court, applied the conventional experiment of tapping the subject's knee, which is expected to produce a sharp kick. But there was no reaction. "Of course not," said the patient, pulling up his trousers leg. "That's a wooden leg."

The Weather? You'll Hear Soon From Your Old Friend, Mr. Monax

(Feature Service)

The gent pictured here, Mr. Arctomys Monax, alias Marmota Monax, alias Groundhog, alias Woodchuck, and in South Africa alias aardvark, is due for a lot of publicity again tomorrow, February 2.

Every year on that day, says a rural tradition, he comes out of a deep sleep, crawls out of his burrow, and sees or doesn't see his shadow. If he sees it, he supposedly retreats to his underground apartment and does for six weeks more. That means a late spring. If he doesn't see his shadow, there will be an early spring. It's been a cold winter for many of us, so there is more interest than usual in Mr. Monax's appearance.

The American Museum of Natural History says there is some truth in the legend. The woodchuck would see his shadow on a bright day—probably a clear, cold one with no clouds and no rain in prospect to wash away the snow and hasten the springtime. Even groundhogs make mistakes, though. A lot of them come out too early—when they are likely to face starvation or to be frozen to death.

Vandenberg Recognizes Principle of Flexible Tariff Arrangements, Proposes Foreign Trade Board

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1940)

Washington, Feb. 1.—Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, recognizing the principle of flexible tariff arrangements in dealing with foreign countries, has proposed the establishment of a foreign trade board to advise the President of the United States in the proclamation of tariff duty changes.

Mr. Vandenberg has been among the leaders in opposition to the present method of concluding trade agreements by the department of state. In line with the oft-expressed point that a critic should present an alternative, the Michigan senator reveals his plan in the form of a bill which he has just introduced.

The bill would, in general, transfer from the present inter-departmental committee, which handles tariff matters for the department of state, all powers to a newly created foreign trade board. This board would have the advantage of being occupied all the time with trade matters and not as an incidental part of other governmental machinery.

But the new board is merely to advise the President, who, in the last analysis, is to be given power by Congress to raise or lower tariff duties as emergencies require or as changes in world conditions may dictate. This conforms with the experience of our government in recent years in connection with the trade agreements act.

The chief difference, of course, is that Mr. Vandenberg would have the foreign trade board use all methods of handling the tariff question, and he would have Congress check the operations of the board. It is presumed he would want treaties or agreements with foreign nations subjected to approval by a two-thirds vote of the Senate.

Such an institution as Mr. Vandenberg now suggests was brought forth by George N. Peek, formerly foreign trade adviser to President Roosevelt, but Mr. Peek is a strong believer in a two-way barter system and he opposes strenuously the continuance of so-called favored nation treaties. It is difficult to see how the Vandenberg plan could avoid running into treaty complications, but the Michigan senator has provided for such contingencies by reposing power in the presidential office, which, of course, under the constitution, handles foreign relations.

The question of method is a large controversy, whether by barter agreement or by reciprocity agreement, or favored nation clause treaties, but it is significant that Senator Vandenberg, who has sometimes been construed as a strictly isolationist senator and one who would not favor continuance of sound trade agreements, comes out frankly for a realistic program that should go far in removing doubts about the breadth of his view. He says, for instance, with reference to world conditions and the foreign trade board:

"Such an agency will be doubly necessary in post-war periods of readjustment. All of the principal nations of the world have already abandoned most of the methods previously employed in world trade. New and radically different methods already are in vogue. These nations have resorted to unilateral actions such as exchange controls, quotas, embargoes and other export and import controls, and they have extended such arrangements through a constantly growing network of exclusive, bilateral agreements, most of which leave our interests entirely out in the cold. It is not enough to say that these things are wrong. We must cope with these realities by equipping ourselves to meet these conditions which are not likely to pass in our time. Furthermore, it is vital that our foreign trade policy should be consistent within itself and should not present a constant quarrel between different policies pursued by different branches of the same government."

While a foreign trade board to coordinate information and data on exchange arrangements and trade conditions would be a valuable help to the national government, the question arises whether it can successfully conduct negotiations with foreign governments, which, from time immemorial, have been handled through diplomatic channels. The Vandenberg plan would subtract all these powers from the department of state wherever trade matters arise. It is to be noted that the new bill would give the foreign trade board power to negotiate agreements with foreign governments by and with the advice of the President and not the Senate. This is precisely what the defenders of the trade agreements act have insisted was necessary under changing world conditions. The principal difference is that the Vandenberg plan would lean more toward barter than reciprocity, but the final result—agreements with foreign governments—would be the same.

This Lovely Footstool Simple To Make

Cover in Victorian Style

Comfortable and colorful is this Victorian footstool. And its foundation is just a pair of cake cutting boards, its legs—doorstops!

To make, glue between two boards four wooden blocks, each about an inch thick and two inches square. Now screw your doorstops into your bottom board as our diagram shows—piercing each of the four blocks. Paint doorstops in a gay color.

To pad the top of the stool, cut three circles of cotton batting, one the exact size of the surface, one a little smaller, the third smaller still. Place this smallest circle on the stool, then the next size, then the largest. Press edges down firmly.

For a cover—choose flowered chintz, a gay cretonne or lovely needlepoint. Cut a circle large enough to reach down sides of stool to bottom board, fasten in four places, then tack down in small pleats about one inch apart.

For a finish—For making this stool and 23 other useful, attractive articles are given in our 32-page booklet. From inexpensive materials easily you make a smoking set, candle holders, book ends, tea tins, many more items desirable for home or gifts.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of DECORATIVE AND USEFUL OBJECTS. EVERYONE CAN MAKE it. Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of booklet.

New Bathroom Accessories For years china dominated the bathroom scene, but recently bathroom accessories have appeared in metals, plastics and glass to challenge china's monopoly. Towel bars, soap dishes and other accessories now add color and life to the bathroom, as the choice of materials has widened to fit every requirement and color. Old bathrooms may be modernized and brought up to date with these new fixtures and accessories. Not only is new beauty introduced through striking color accents, but utility is heightened in modern bathroom accessories. Many of the new models are of unbreakable and nonshattering materials.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backaches quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Doubtful Riches

Wheeling, W. Va.—Ohio county uncovered a vein of 100,000 tons of coal during an airport construction project but it turned out to be a problem instead of an asset.

Relief clients won't use the fuel, claiming it is of such poor grade that combustion is bad. Efforts to sell it failed when no bids were received. Now the county must arrange to dispose of the coal as the airport construction progresses.

Divine Intervention

Denver—Two young ministers accepted Judge Philip Gilliam's offer to suspend traffic fines if they would pray for greater traffic safety.

One said he would also pray for the judge.

Feathering Its Nest

Wakefield, Mich.—Wakefield lumberjacks are losing their caps to a nocturnal raider. A week ago one of them came into camp declaring he had been attacked by a bird which flew away with his cap. The other jacks laughed at the story but since then, four others have reported losing their headgear and two have suffered cuts on their heads from the talons of the bird, believed to be a great horned owl or hawk.

Elementary, Dr. Watson!

Omaha, Neb.—Eleven-year-old George Uphoff saw four homing pigeons in a dealer's window. "They're mine," he said, contending they had been stolen. But the police and dealer wanted proof.

George suggested the pigeons be released at a corner near his home. They flew directly to the boy's loft, each bird selecting its individual nest.

Dyke disappeared and showed up at a meeting of the bird dog club.

Isaac Hart, 46 years old, of Trenton, N. J., who was granted his first automobile driver's license in 1919 and has driven for 20 years with "no one knowing and evidently not caring whether I was capable of driving or not," has offered to take a physical examination to determine his fitness.

In a letter to Arthur W. Magee, state motor vehicle commissioner, Hart said he hoped to "start a movement through which every driver of an automobile in the United States will be compelled to pass a periodic test proving his fitness to drive."

It was swing to swing for Mrs.

Auto Registration Is 3,068 Higher

Whether the people of Ulster county have more cash on hand this year than they did a year ago, or whether the lack of snow and consequent favorable driving conditions late in the winter have something to do with it, the fact remains that there was a very heavy increase in the number of car owners who renewed their automobile registrations before the time limit expired, compared with a year ago. Increase in passenger and commercial registrations was 3,068.

Lives on Soy Bean Diet

It used to be that a self-respecting cow wouldn't eat the lowly soy bean unless it was exceedingly hungry. But today this once-detestable food is being made to perform a variety of dietetic functions at the home of Jay N. Judd of Asheville, N. C. Judd is a farmer. He also is one of the growing battalion of men who have taken upon themselves the job of preaching this gospel: "The soy bean is the greatest health food on earth. Eat it." And Judd practices what he preaches.

In some form, soy bean is the base—and often an embellishment—of three meals a day seven days a week in the Judd household.

He's manufacturing about two dozen different products from the peanut-sized bean, and that's just a beginning of what he hopes to do.

Judd says there's a "gold mine" for the South in this crop if the people can be convinced that the bean is good. Extensive consumption of the bean, he asserted, has greatly improved his health.

"There was an old automobile parked out in the garage that I didn't have any use for. So I rigged it up with a mill I'd bought and started feeding this contraption with soy beans I'd bought from farmers." Since that time, hundreds of bushels of soy beans have passed through the mill making the flour from which a strange assortment of foods is derived.

"There's soy bean milk, for instance," Judd said. "Not only does it look like cow's milk, but it actually curdles when it gets a few days old. From this milk my wife makes cottage cheese, butter and several other things."

"Then there's soy bean oil. We use that for making mayonnaise, seasoning cakes, flavoring salads and ordinary cooking purposes."

"As a matter of fact, you can almost add 'soy bean' to everything we eat."

THOUSANDS HOMELESS IN GREAT JAPANESE FIRE

This photo has just arrived, by ship to San Francisco, showing the $20,000,000 fire which destroyed 6,500 homes and the most important businesses and city buildings in Shizuoka, Japan. About 40,000 were made homeless. Flames are shown as they reached the main business district. The large building at right center is a branch of Matsuzakaya, Japan's largest department store concern.

Convict Gives Dollar

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 1 (AP)—A convict at state's prison gave a dollar for the Finnish Relief Fund. He was Fred Erwin Beal, who renounced Communism after taking refuge in Russia. He was to stave off serving a prison sentence imposed in connection with the shooting of a policeman during the Gastonia textile strike in 1929.

Elmendorf, Lennox Retire From County Postal Offices

January 31 marked the retirement of two veteran postmasters in this section—and in both cases the new incumbents of the offices will bear the title of postmistresses. The retirements were under provisions of a law passed a year or so ago fixing 70 as the age limit for postmasters and carrying with it pension provisions. The offices immediately referred to are those at Hurley and Glenford.

The latter will move the office from the old Revolutionary stone building, in which Mr. Elmendorf also conducts a grocery business, to a bungalow near the stone house, also of Colonial antecedents, on the corner at the entrance to Hurley from Kingston.

Zebe Is Held For Grand Jury

George Zebe, 46, of 292 Washington avenue, waived examination this morning when arraigned in police court, and was held to await the action of the grand jury. Judge Matthew V. Cahill, who presided, informed him that bail would be fixed by county court.

Mr. Zebe is charged with grand larceny in the first degree. He is accused of appropriating to his own use a sum in excess of $300 from the treasury of the Excelsior Hose Company, while he was serving as treasurer of the fire company. Mr. Zebe was arrested last August on a warrant sworn out by other officers of the fire company, but the case had been adjourned from time to time.

Large Attendance at Hospital Auxiliary

There was a large attendance at the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary meeting on Tuesday at the first meeting of the new year. As there was no December meeting the reports on Thanksgiving and Christmas were given at this time. Miss Jessie P. Allan spoke of the lovely roses sent by Mrs. A. B. Shufeldt to all the patients in the hospital at Thanksgiving and said that they were greatly appreciated.

The committee on the Christmas decorations reported that wreaths placed in all the windows and trees donated and trimmed by Mrs. Shufeldt and Mrs. Kenneth H. LeFever helped cheer a little the patients forced to be in the hospital at the happy holiday season.

Mrs. Arthur H. Wicks, chairman of the cutting and sewing committee, made the following report up to February 1: 18 towels, 20 instrument stand covers, 72 glove covers, 11 binders, 17 laboratory sheets and 1 kerchief, making 139 pieces in all.

This sewing by the auxiliary members is one of the many important works conducted by the auxiliary. Many individuals and organizations throughout the city help with this necessary work, necessary not only to the surgeons, doctors and nurses but to the patients as well.

Plans were completed for the annual benefit dance February 3 at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The auxiliary sponsors to aid in the work of the hospital. All the material of the sewing and cutting committee is purchased by the hospital auxiliary and given over to the committee where it is made ready for the many generous helpers in the sewing.

The Meyer Davis orchestra has been engaged for the dancing from 10 until 3 o'clock. Constant music all evening, not broken by entertainment of any sort will be enjoyed by the dance lovers. A delicious supper has been ordered and will be served at 12:30 o'clock and is included in the price of admission. A warm welcome awaits all who attend.

Mrs. Parker K. Brinner, chairman of the ticket committee, reports a splendid advance sale of tickets and the committee is working hard to make this last pre-ent affair the outstanding social success it always is.

Following the business meeting Mrs. Maude Rogers, field representative of New York Maternal Health Association, spoke before the auxiliary members and an interested group of women who attended to hear her.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morris of 63 Second avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Mrs. Frances Morris Hall of Hornell, to Lynn Blackmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blackmer, also of Hornell.

Business Girls' Entertained

Members of the Business Girls' Club of the Y. W. C. A. were entertained last evening at the "Y" by members of the Board of Directors following the regular supper meeting of the Business Girls' Club. About 70 members of the board of the Business Girls' enjoyed first an indoor scavenger hunt after which the evening was spent in a round of games. Arrangements for the party were in charge of Mrs. William Finch, chairman, assisted by the other members of the board. The Business Girls' will be addressed next week by the Rev. Russell Damsstra, pastor of the Church of the Comforter.

Kavanagh-Mayr

Miss Barbara Mayr, daughter of Mrs. E. J. Mayr of 625 Abeel street and Robert V. Kavanagh, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kavanagh of 9 Joy's Lane, were united in marriage Sunday at St. Peter's Church by the Rev. Henry E. Herdeggen. Miss Rita Kavanagh, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and Otto Mayr, brother of the bride, was best man.

Will Give Two-Piano Recital

WILLIAM GROTHKOPP

DONALD HICKS

D. Donald Hicks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hicks of 87 Clifton avenue, and William Grothkopp, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Grothkopp of 41 Downs street, will present a two-piano recital on Friday, February 9, in the Kingston High School auditorium.

Both young men are members of the Kingston High School senior class, of which Mr. Grothkopp is the president. Mr. Hicks has been active in the role of school pianist for his four years in high school. The young men have chosen music as their careers and from previous musical performances their decisions are justified. The two pianists are pupils of Lina M. Schmidt-Konz.

Couple Club Has Fourth Anniversary

The fourth anniversary of the Couple Club of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer was celebrated Wednesday evening with a Valentine party at the Maple Arch Homestead.

The celebration was in the form of a Valentine party with red and white decorations and heart corsages and boutonnieres for the members. The evening's program consisted of group singing and enjoying various games after the dinner.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Fred DuBois, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Messinger, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hutt, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Fox, Mr. and Mrs. George Mustapasta, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Messinger, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stroble and the Rev. and Mrs. Russell Gaenzle.

Arrangements for the anniversary celebration were in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hutt and Mr. and Mrs. Otis Tracy.

YM Auxiliary to Meet

The February meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. will be held Friday of this week. A change of the regular meeting date from the second Friday of the month was made in order that members might unite in the world day of prayer meeting to be held in the Rondout Presbyterian Church on Friday, February 9. Mrs. Clarence Rowland will lead the devotional service at the meeting after which there will be a musical program under the direction of Miss Helen Turner. All the auxiliary members are urged to be present and to help their teams in the attendance contest.

Elks Meeting Postponed

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Kingston Elks has been postponed from Monday, February 5 to Monday, February 12. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock in the club rooms on Fair street.

High School Senior Play

"What a Life," the play to be presented by the senior class of Kingston High School, is a comedy in three acts which enjoyed a long run on the New York stage last season. The plot concerns the adventures of Henry Aldrich, 17-year-old high school boy. The setting is in a high school and the complications are numerous and amusing, with most of Henry's troubles starting from his "affaires du coeur."

Ezra Stone, prominent youthful actor, portrayed the role of Henry Aldrich during the production's nine weeks run on Broadway. "What a Life" is extremely well adapted to production by high school students since the leading players are naturally in character. The play will be presented at the high school auditorium on Friday and Saturday evenings, March 1 and 2.

Supper Postponed

The cafeteria supper planned by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Hobrow School has been postponed from February 4 to an indefinite date.

Personal Notes

Mrs. Julia Illiaschenko of Johnston avenue is visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Windsor Belfield, at their home in Philadelphia, Pa.

John McCullough, a student at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, is spending the mid-year vacation at his home on Orchard street.

Dr. and Mrs. Harold Mandell have taken up their residence in their new home on Washington avenue.

Mrs. Chester B. Van Gaasbeek was hostess to her card club on Wednesday at her home on St. James street.

Suppers-Food Sales

The Ladies' Aid Society of Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church on Livingston street will hold a baked goods and food sale at the Bull Market on Smith avenue Saturday of this week, beginning at 10 a. m.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a Home," "The Rites of Social Usage," etc.)

Question of Good Manners in School is Submitted by Class—They are told teacher's rule that they rise when she enters is polite behavior.

It is not at all unusual to be written to by teachers asking for help in improving the manners of their classes, but a letter just received from a whole class about the interpretation of etiquette by one of its teachers is very unusual indeed. The spokesman for the class explains: "One of our teachers has made it a rule that we are to rise every time she comes into the classroom and also to rise when she comes back should she happen to be called out of the room during the class. We are also told to rise if another teacher comes in during class. We are to remain seated, however, when this teacher gets up to write on the black board or when she walks up and dived during the class lecture. None of our other teachers has asked this of us, so we are sure that it is not a new ruling of the school."

The letter gives me no idea how old the members of the class may be or whether there are boys as well as girls in it. But in any case, I "must report" that the rules of polite behavior agree with those this teacher is enforcing. All gentlemen rise when a lady comes into the room. If a boy is not taught to do this, he will never do it instinctively when he is a man. Every well brought up child—girl as well as boy—should rise when a grown person—gentleman as well as lady—comes into the room. And even though a girl in her higher teens does not usually rise for a gentleman, she does so always in her own house—and her own classroom may very properly be considered as belonging in a similar category. Which may explain why the other teachers are not enforcing the same rules; why it may not even be correct that they do so. In your regular classroom, where you can be supposed to be at home, or where this particular teacher can be supposed at home, the practice of either receiving your teacher as a guest, or of being received by her, is one of the characteristic features of nearly all finishing schools. That this particular teacher should do this following a long established precedent, and so far as proper behavior is concerned, the teacher is giving you excellent training. But another teacher—one for example, who lectures to a very large class—faces an audience. And an audience does not (under usual circumstances) rise. When your own teacher stands to talk to you collectively or to write on the blackboard, you become as it were an audience. A class so large that it may be considered an audience is not expected to rise for any one less than a visitor of extraordinary distinction, such as President Roosevelt, or ex-President Hoover, the governor of the state or a high prelate, etc. A very small group, on the other hand, should show the courtesy expected of well-bred individuals. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. These tarts are just made for your Valentine party

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
 (AP Feature Service Writer)

It's Leap Year, it's Valentine time — how about a party for the "teen-agers"? It's a grand entertainment at this season and the youngsters will particularly enjoy the Leap-Year angle.

The fun starts when gay, lacy Valentine invitations go out. The girls call for the boys, present them with corsages (rilly, home-made paper affairs to wear on their lapels), make out the dance programs (or do all the cutting in) and even serve the refreshments. Every one has a hilarious time at this kind of party and it is a good way to mix up a school crowd.

A costume party is pretty and most youngsters like to dress up. So if one is in order mention it on the invitation.

Dances, as well as most other young folks parties, usually call for a well-filled punch bowl (or tall pitcher). Mix a tart, fruity drink and make it glow with red fruit-coloring. Serve it very cold and pepped up, if you like, with ginger ale or lime lemon sherbet, added at the last minute.

For a very informal party, plenty of punch, assorted heart-shaped cakes and cookies and peppermint candies are enough to serve. But you'd better see that the foods are especially good or your children may "call you down" later.

If your refreshments are more elaborate, serve them buffet fashion. This saves passing and gives a chance for a "dressy" table. Cut out hearts, large and small, from red blotting paper and use them for mats under the food dishes. Have a large one under the punch bowl and individual ones for the cups (sort of a coaster suggestion). Arrows cut from gold paper build up the theme. The mats save the tables and provide extra Valentine touches.

Of course all the foods should be as "heart-y" as possible. Salmon salad sandwiches, heart-shaped, piled up in a large paper, china or glass heart, give a festive appearance. And thin,

VALENTINE TARTS

(Serves 4)
 The Shells

1 1/2 cups flour
 1/2 cup shortening
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup cold water
 Mix and sift flour and salt. Cut into shortening with pastry blender. Add ice cold water a tablespoonful at a time. Roll on floured board, cut to fit inverted heart-shaped jelly molds. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 20 minutes or until delicately browned. With cookie cutter, cut small hearts of the remaining pastry and bake three to five minutes.

The Filling

1 cup grape juice
 1/2 cup water
 1/2 cup raspberry juice (from small 5 red raspberries)
 5 tablespoons cornstarch
 1 cup sugar
 1/2 cup mashed red raspberries
 Combine sugar, cornstarch, salt then sift. Thin with cold water. Add mashed raspberries. Heat rest of water and juices. Add cold cornstarch mixture slowly, stirring until thick. Cook 15 minutes. Cool. Pour into pastry shells, top with pastry hearts.

buttered, white, and Graham bread hearts, spread with minced ham or tuna and pickled hearts (very tiny) in a shallow dish, offer an open-faced sandwich idea.

Fruit, chicken or salmon gelatin salad, moulded in heart shapes, will make a hit when accompanied by small cold or cream cheese sandwiches rolled and tied with red ribbons from which gum drop hearts dangle. A bit fussy, to be sure, but that's permissible for this function.

For something hot, there is creamed chicken, diced pimientos and peas in heart pastry cases. And salmon loaf, surrounded with creamed asparagus will go over big. Complete either of these menus with heart-shaped cheese biscuits or rolls, and lime or currant sherbet. Hot chocolate is always good with any menu.

For other refreshment thrills, red gelatin or frozen dessert hearts are delicious with tiny heart cakes, submerged in pink frosting and coconut. Or bake a heart-shaped layer cake, frost it gayly with white icing and decorate with tiny red and green candies and split almonds. Team this up with any pink or red sherbet or ice cream. Clove-flavored sherbet is "scrumptious."

BLOOD RUNS COLD

By Ann Demarest

YESTERDAY: Dirck suggests that Christine leave her list of questions on the drawing board in full view. The Sergeant thinks the murderer left by the window. Dirck thinks he left by the window.

Chapter 15

Down The Drain Pipe

In a couple of minutes the Sergeant came back.

"I took a look at the drain pipe from the side yard this afternoon," Dirck said, looking up from the paper. "The metal clamps that fasten it to the wall seem to be strained loose."

The Sergeant nodded. "That's probably from weathering."

Then Norton came upstairs. He seemed to me hardly the type to try any stunts on a drain pipe. He was tall, but pretty heavy and he seemed very clumsy as he crawled out of the window and poked around for a good grip.

We watched him breathlessly, and for the first few feet, except he looked anything but happy, all went well. Then before we could even shout to warn him, there was a grating noise and the drain pipe and Detective Norton went crashing into the side yard. He hit a snow bank, barely missing a head-long flight down the steps of the arway into the cellar.

The Sergeant seemed to be considerably amused, and when Dirck rushed downstairs to help the detective, I turned to him.

"How you expected to prove anything by that, I can't imagine. That man Norton was too heavy."

"Take it easy, Miss Howarth. Maybe Koff was right, but I don't think so."

"Well," I said, "it doesn't seem necessary to half kill a perfectly good detective to prove your point."

Dirck came back and said that the detective wasn't hurt, just shaken up.

"He's well padded," the Sergeant said. "And as for you, my young detective, maybe the murderer did use the pipe, but you've got to prove it to me."

Dirck ignored that. "Such a method of strangling," he said slowly, "must have taken time. While the beads were being twisted around her throat she must have been a few minutes of consciousness and she could see herself in the mirror. The instrument must have been blunt. You say it didn't cut her neck."

"Here's the note she left on the desk," the Sergeant said, taking an envelope out of his pocket.

Dirck read it aloud:

"I couldn't talk with you tonight because what I have to tell is too difficult to say. Father and I am worried about Richard. I must go away and I can't go home. I've caused you nothing but trouble. She came here again tonight. Sometimes it seems as though everyone would be happier if . . ."

Dirck stopped short and the Sergeant said, "She must have been interrupted, because the sentence isn't finished and the paper was turned on the desk with the writing side down. Seems to be enough in that letter to give a lot of work. Who in hell is she?"

"Who was it addressed to?" Dirck asked.

"Tim Lathrop. There was no address, only his name, so she wasn't going to mail it."

Dirck put the letter back in the envelope. "And Tim Lathrop can't be located," he said slowly.

The Sergeant sat down in one of the chairs and said, "It's a funny case, however you look at it," he said presently. "The thing that gets me is, the girl and Richard MacDonald were half-sister and brother and no one in the house seems to know it. I asked the maid and Mrs. Evans. They were surprised to find it out. And no one knew that Mr. Kimball was Richard's uncle, either. The family is certainly mixed up. The mother married twice. . . . He stopped short. "Say, how do we know that her first husband isn't mixed up in this?"

No Secret

Dirck smiled slightly. "I hardly think he will trouble you. Mr. Kimball told me he died years ago."

The Sergeant looked disgusted. "Well, tell me why they were so quiet about being related?" he demanded as he pulled a cigar out of his pocket and lit it.

"I don't believe they deliberately kept it secret," Richard MacDonald said they didn't mix with the people in the house."

"All of these details are what take time to go into and don't mean a damn thing," the Sergeant sniffed and then turned to me. "That telephone call you answered this morning came from a drug store in Times Square. And the detective I sent out to bring in Kincaid hasn't turned up yet."

The Sergeant seemed to grow more restive by the minute. "The people in this case are scattered all over everywhere," he said. "I spent half the afternoon trying to round up Lathrop, and he hasn't been seen in his hotel since last night and the clerk had no idea where he works."

"He's a writer, isn't he?" Dirck asked.

"Where would he write then? Do people hire offices for that or do they walk the streets all night? If I ever get hold of him he'll have something to write about."

Someone knocked on the door and when the Sergeant called to come in Adrienne Wells appeared. She looked a little better, I thought; at least with so much make-up she wasn't quite so pale. "May I go out?" she asked the Sergeant sweetly. "Or would you prefer that I stay home and try to remember what time I got in last night?"

The Sergeant glowered. "Where are you going?"

"To dinner and then to the movies."

"Alone?"

"Yes, alone, or would you like to go with me?"

"Skip it. Skip it. Talk like that doesn't help you any. Go ahead, but see that you come back again tonight."

She colored a little, but when she spoke to him her voice was mocking. "Thank you, Sergeant."

"I'm glad she's gone," Dirck said after we heard her go down the stairs. "I want to talk to Miss Rogers again. I didn't have much luck with her while Miss Wells was with her. They seem to be holding out."

"They are," the Sergeant retorted grimly. "If you can find out what that Wells girl was doing last night you're better than I think you are. There's only one more person in the house to question and that's Whitefield. I suppose he was sitting up with a sick friend."

Dirck got up. "I'm going to call on Miss Mary Ann," he said with a grin at me.

And when Dirck went out the Sergeant said, "Whitefield is supposed to be an artist and his apartment looks like a studio, but no one has seen him around here today. These artists and writers don't seem to do much."

I resisted that. "It's not the easiest place to work, this house," I said. "First a murder and now the police roaming all over the place."

"Something About You"

"Now Miss Howarth, I didn't mean you. In fact, I forgot you were an artist."

"Painter," I said under my breath.

"You look like a girl who has good sense. I admit at first I tried to be funny, but you moved in here just as all this happened, but now I see I was wrong. That's generous of you," I retorted a little acidly. I always regret being thought sensible. It ages me every time anyone says that.

Then I thought of the fact that "Doesn't Mr. Whitefield have the front apartment?"

The Sergeant nodded.

"Then it has southern exposure. He wouldn't work there. He probably has a studio somewhere else."

And then Dirck came back. "Mary Ann," he said, "is taking a bath. I must call later."

"Probably a stall," the Sergeant said.

He was very restless. He paced back and forth, muttering about his slow assistants and wondering whether he'd ever get a report on the fingerprints. Then Mr. Kimball called to him from the shop. He rushed downstairs and while he was gone I went to my room for a fresh pack of cigarettes. When I came back Dirck was standing at the window watching.

"You look very smooth tonight, Miss Howarth," he said, beaming on me.

I'd changed my frock while he was doing all of his sleuthing during the afternoon. I thanked him. "There's something about you," he broke off as the Sergeant rushed into the room.

"So she was going to the movies, was she?" he shouted. "That girl went to an apartment on West 10th street. She rang the bell and tried the door to the apartment, but there wasn't anyone there. A man by the name of Leon Perry has a lease on the place."

We stared at him.

"Who in hell is Leon Perry?"

The Sergeant stood for a moment by the desk looking down at us. "By the way, Miss Howarth, when you answered the telephone this morning you must have left your fingerprints. Did you touch anything else?"

"I didn't leave fingerprints on anything. I picked up the telephone with my handkerchief."

"You what?" He stared at me. "How'd you happen to do that?"

"I didn't care for his roaring, so I roared back. Because I didn't want to touch anything in this room."

"You seem to be very sensitive. Walking in on a murder, the average person doesn't stop to think about using handkerchiefs unless they don't want to leave fingerprints. Or perhaps there were some you rubbed off?"

I didn't answer him. He was glowering at me like an angry bull.

"I don't believe Miss Howarth had any ulterior motive," Dirck broke in.

"The Sergeant brushed him aside. "That's what you say. Let me tell you, young lady, I'm not through with you yet."

Licenses Revoked And Suspended

Carroll E. Mealey, commissioner of motor vehicles, today announced the list of revoked and suspended driving licenses and certificates of automobile registration filed within the two weeks ended January 20. The revocations and suspensions totaled 606, of which 157 cases will require proof of financial responsibility before applications for new licenses will be considered.

There were 102 revocations and 222 suspensions in New York city and vicinity, and 133 revocations and 149 suspensions in the remainder of the state. In the Albany district, there were 27 revocations and 16 suspensions.

There were only two revocations and one suspension in this vicinity:

Revocations

Buddie Jack Traver of Rhinebeck and Alexander MacDonald of Gardiner for driving while intoxicated.

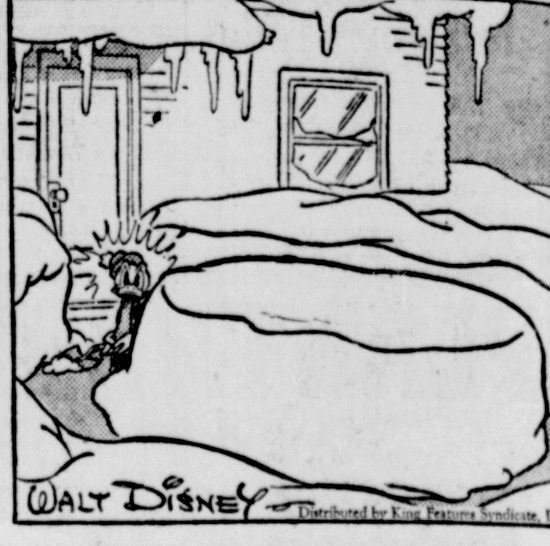

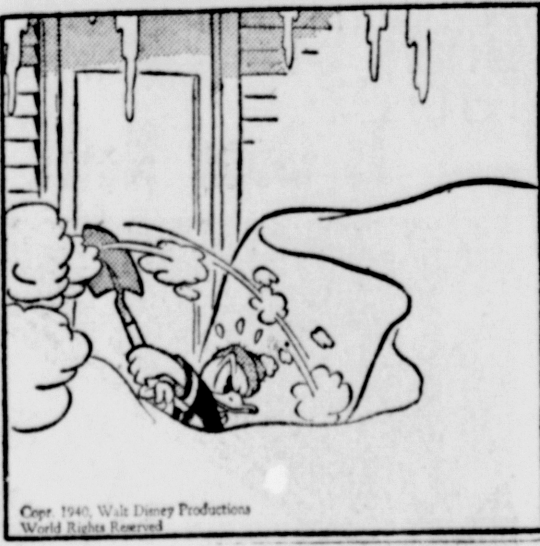

Suspension

George William Scott, Wallkill, for improper use of license plates.

When Mother told Father in a fit of anger that she had many proposals and had refused many men before Dad popped the question his mental reaction was that some fellows have all the luck but he maintained a discreet silence.

WANDERING MAMMY

February Reminds Me—

In records since the first of time, (it has just dawned on me).

Each more-enduring narrative links some one with a tree.

It seems that faintly I recall a fig tree that made history.

That George chopped down a cherry one is surely not a mystery.

Abe Lincoln carved on any kind—just so it made a rail.

At least—that's how the story goes, and it's a lasting fame.

So, if you want undying fame, it really seems to me

The sure route is to get mixed up in some way—with a tree!

Youngsters often know the answers:

Teacher—Junior, can you tell me how matches are made?

Junior—No, ma'am, but I don't blame you for asking.

Teacher—What do you mean?

Junior—Well, my mother says you've been trying to make a match for 20 years.

How would it do to advertise after this fashion:

A reader has spotted this sign in a Houston, (Texas), shoe shining parlor:

"Pedal habiliments artistically lubricated and illuminated with ambidextrous facility for the infinitesimal remuneration of 5 cents per operator."

A woman will wear anything if other women are wearing it, and a man will wear anything.

We want to make sure that you heard about the Scotchman who gave his girl a watch case for Christmas and told her that next Christmas he would give her the works.

Aunt Jerusha—What have you ever done to benefit your fellow man?

Uncle Eli—Well, I married you, didn't I?

A woman met a young woman at a California resort hotel, so the story goes:

Young Woman—Do you know Mr. Brown?

Woman—Very well.

Young Woman—Do you think he would make a good husband?

Woman—Well, I wouldn't say—he has only been an indifferent husband to me for the past three years.

After the mailman calls, life presents no mysteries to the housewife for the rest of the day unless the telephone rings.

If you want to feel real lonesome and homesick, just get in a crowd of men and women who are gathered in a hotel lobby on a rainy day, none of them you know. There just seems to be something depressing about the place which is not the case when you mingle with strangers on the street.

Johnnie—Dad, give me a dime, will you?

Dad (busy reading)—Aw, go on, don't bother me.

Johnnie—Dad, will you give me a dime if I tell you what the ice man said to Mother this morning?

Dad (putting down paper and pulling out a dime)—Sold! Now, what did the ice man say?

Johnnie—He said, "Good morning, lady. How much ice do you want today?"

Then Johnnie retreated with his dime.

Lives Alone and Likes It

This bearded, ragged man, giving the name of P. A. Devo, was found living in a hillside cave near St. Joseph, Mich., despite the sub-zero weather. He told sheriff's officers who found him that he lived alone in the cave because he liked it.

Social Hygiene Observance Here

Today the fourth national Social Hygiene Day is being celebrated throughout the nation. The principal reason for observing this annual public health event is to encourage the use of proper medical facilities and to increase the number of infected persons receiving treatment. Social Hygiene Day is observed in every state and more than 5,000 communities and is sponsored by the American Social Hygiene Association in cooperation with hundreds of health, welfare and civic organizations. As Ulster county's part in this observance the Social Hygiene Committee of the Ulster County Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health will hold a dinner meeting this evening at the Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Hollis Ingraham, district state health officer, will preside. Dr. Elizabeth Gardiner, director of the Division of Maternity, Infancy and Child Hygiene of the New York State Department of Health will present "The Contribution of Syphilis Control in a Maternal and Child Health Program." A new talking picture, "With These Weapons," will be shown. Mayor C. J. Heiselman will greet about 100 organization representatives and community leaders, who have made reservations. Those of the public who have not reserved places at the dinner are urged to attend for the program scheduled to start at 8 p. m.

Gramer Celebrates First Anniversary

Jack Gramer, uptown merchant, is sporting a broad smile this morning—for today marks his first anniversary in the business known as Gramer's Silk and Cotton Store.

For some years Mr. Gramer has been associated with various stores in and about this territory, but it was not until February 1, 1939, that he opened the doors of his own store in the former location of the Rainbow Cotton Club.

Women Veterans To Launch Drive

The Women World War Veterans, an organization of service women who own 100 acres at Veterans Hills, Saugerties, are planning a campaign to raise funds to establish a convalescent home for enlisted women and members of such auxiliary forces as Red Cross nurses, canteen workers and other groups who aided in the World War.

The site at Saugerties would be available to use for the proposed home.

Miss Dorothy Frooks, a former resident of Saugerties, is national commander of the organization.

The first dinner of the campaign will be held on April 5 at the Biltmore in New York, where the campaign has its headquarters.

Moose Peak lighthouse, in the mouth of the Bay of Fundy, is said to be the foggiest spot in the country. In 1930, there were 1,562 hours of fog there, for a record.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Huestis displaying caterpillar which was found in Ellenville yesterday, despite snow and freezing weather. Below: closeup of worm whose appearance at this time of year is phenomenal.

Early Worm Found Inching on Tracks

Calls It Vitality

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—Disagreement over interpretation of the United States Constitution was described by Chief Justice Hughes today as "a token of vitality." He spoke on a program commemorating the first meeting of the Supreme Court 150 years ago, after Attorney General Robert H. Jackson asserted that "law must be reviewed and rewritten in terms of current conditions if it is not to be a dead science."

Ellenville, Feb. 1—Paging Mr. Ripley!

For, believe it or not, a very-much-alive caterpillar was found here yesterday morning.

Harry Huestis, prison guard and Ellenville resident, discovered the worm, inching its way along a rail at the Canal street crossing of the New York, Ontario and Western Railroad.

"Mrs. Huestis and I were out for a hike," he said, "and were certainly surprised to find a caterpillar with the temperature well below freezing."

The caterpillar seemed to be headed for Kingston and apparently was planning to hop the next east-bound train," smiled Mr. Huestis.

If it is a sign of early spring, this "early worm" caught the napping by appearing before the proverbial "first robin."

SOUTH RONDOUT

South Rondout, Feb. 1—Mrs. Ann Isherwood and daughter, Mrs. Ole Christensen, and children of Rifton, were callers Monday at the home of Mrs. Mary Peters.

The Hasbrouck Engine Co. will hold the regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening, February 6, in the fire house.

Choir rehearsal Thursday evening at the home of Miss Harriet Olsen.

Friday evening the Rev. Mr. Chase, district superintendent, will hold the fourth quarterly conference in the Methodist Church.

Services in the Methodist Church for Sunday, February 4: Sunday School 10 a. m. Morning worship 11 o'clock. Evening service 7:30 o'clock. The Rev. F. A. Potter, minister.

When a man receiving aid from the state as a blind man starts driving a truck it's time to investigate. So said Los Angeles officials in bringing into court Auburn Cass, 36. Cass pleaded guilty to receiving $50 a month through perjured claims.

were closed during the night and they slept with their windows open.

She said she arose about 7 o'clock Sunday morning and went to the bathroom and was stricken by the gas fumes and fell unconscious to the floor. The Harpers were also rendered unconscious by the fumes as well as their young son, a student in one of the local grammar schools.

Mrs. Ackley was of the opinion that the furnace threw off coal gas which seeped into the Harper's bedroom through the register in the floor, and also into the bathroom. A blower attachment had been recently installed on the heating plant and she believed that it had not given enough draft. Since then repairs had been made and no more trouble has been experienced.

Pratt's Patent Is Victory Over Fractured Vertebrae

confined to his bed in an almost horizontal position ever since. "It was a stunning blow to an ambitious youth," said Mr. Pratt today, "but I resolved to face the future without fear and make the most of life despite misfortune."

Several operations by finest surgeons proved unavailing in Mr. Pratt's hope of walking again. He seemed doomed by fate to an empty life of inactivity and misery but for his iron-clad determination to do something worthwhile.

An intelligent man, his enforced idleness might have been unbearable if he had not turned to some field where he could use his active mind.

So he turned to radio—began experimenting in the days of ungainly loud-speakers and squawky reception.

Realizing the opportunity for research and vast improvement in this field, he began to seek the answer to perfect tone and elimination of static.

Mr. Pratt was entirely self-taught in the fundamental principles of radio and worked steadily toward his goal at a simple bedside work bench. He fashioned most of his equipment from inexpensive materials and, after several years of trial and error, has apparently accomplished what no highly-trained technician in a "million dollar laboratory" has been able to do.

The invention embodies radical departures in the manner in which component parts of the radio are assembled and is entirely free from interference, or man-made static.

The inventor tasted heart-breaking failure when his first patent application in July, 1938, was rejected on the grounds that results claimed were incredible.

He refused to accept defeat, however, and after further research, made another application for patent.

A subsequent demonstration before the chief radio examiner at the U. S. Patent Office in Washington, resulted in issuing a patent January 16, 1940.

Features of the Pratt invention are:

Lack of interference, or static, from various utility sparks, including high tension wires and various household electrical gadgets, such as vacuum cleaners, electric irons, electric razors. This is done without shielding the set.

No hiss, or "background" noise whatever. In conventional types it is usually necessary to seek a bass type tone to partly neutralize the hiss of tubes, in the Pratt type there is no background hiss and tones have a full, brilliant, natural character.

Complete absence of audio frequency fading which has always been a source of annoyance to radio listeners.

Little current consumption on both grid and plate, coupled with perfect tone quality, which is carried out set and apparently not modified by any imperfections existing in the transmitter. Little current consumption lessens possibilities for burning out set and decreases fire hazard. Mr. Pratt's demonstration set is powered by dry cell batteries which have shown no more loss than by ordinary deterioration when not in use.

Ability to pick up weak signals without sacrifice of power; also generation of power or its practical equivalent while maintaining low voltage.

Better selectivity and elimination of characteristic "howl" of some radios while tuning from

Business Men To Vote on Plan

Ellenville, William Cruickshank of Big Indian and John A. Wadlin of Marlborough, chairman of the local board of supervisors, are scheduled to attend the meeting.

This group will decide when the plans are fully presented, whether or not Ulster county will derive benefits in proportion to the effort and money which must necessarily be put forth, Mr. Betts indicated.

In the opinion of Mr. Betts, and the others of the local committee, the sum of $20,000 which has been mentioned as the goal of the association for the year, is too high a figure to be shared by nine counties. Just how this money will be raised in each of the counties, and how much each county is to raise, is expected to be explained at the meeting Monday.

If it is found, Mr. Betts explained, that Ulster county will be called upon to raise a sum out of proportion to the benefits to be derived, it would not be advisable to take active part in the organization.

No estimated sum has been given, however, as Ulster county's share in the undertaking.

The local committee stands ready to cooperate in the promotional campaign of the organization, Mr. Betts explained if the cost "can be kept within reason."

It has been decided, Mr. Betts reported, to call the apple blossom festival this year "The Hudson Valley Blossom Festival." This title, it is expected, will be more attractive to people of the metropolitan area.

The committee on the festival also has decided, Mr. Betts said, to reduce the cost of the festival without seriously affecting the importance and general program of the event. The committee will make an effort, he said, to build up the festival so that it will eventually rival that now held in the western part of the state.

A request by a group of local bowlers for sponsorship of a team to be sent to the National Bowling Congress was left without action when it was decided that it might set a precedent.

Announcement of the Home Bureau forums to be held later this month and in March was made by William Hardenburgh, president of the organization.

Topic of the forum will deal with the relationship between shoppers and the merchants.

The organization extended a welcome to Robert Clemence, new manager of the local Sears-Roebuck store. He was introduced to the various members by Mr. Hardenburgh.

Tests for Drivers
Motor Vehicle Bureau announces a change in the day on which those seeking to take tests to qualify for drivers' licenses may take the tests. Until further notice tests will be given in Kingston on Wednesday of each week between the hours of 9 and 4.

one station to another.

Low manufacture cost due to elimination of some parts. This would tend, too, to decrease depreciation and wear factor and lessen repair factor.

Ability to play many feet underground.

Leading manufacturers are now angling for demonstrations of the invention.

Attorney Manuel Dittenheimer,

legal counsel to Mr. Pratt, said today:

"Radio engineers have maintained that whoever succeeded in controlling regeneration would obtain natural tone quality and lack of hiss, or background noise, as well as more desirable stability. But they did not suspect that whoever succeeded in controlling regeneration would by the same token have a radio free from all man-made static, commonly known as interference."

Leading technicians who have heard demonstrations of the Pratt invention are unanimous in their praise of results. Their consensus is that it is "incredible but true."

Laymen who have heard the radio are especially impressed with the natural tone and clarity of reception. The radio, in short, does not sound like a victrola that needs a new needle but gives one the impression that voices and music originate in the same room.

Mr. Pratt's love for his work is reflected in his clear blue eyes that sparkle as he modestly explains his new circuit. A native of New York City, he has lived in Grahamsville for a number of years and moved to Ellenville only last October.

A man of genial nature, he is clean-cut, sincere and direct in his manner. His face is etched with strength of character he has shown in his long, but triumphant, battle with adversity.

KELLY'S CORNER • By JOE KELLY

Maybe It's Friction Among Poles
... Cappy Wants Return Match

Ten wins out of 14 starts isn't bad, says Frank Wojciechowski about his White Eagles, who are trying to work out of their recent three-game slump. . . . Friday they clash with the Tulips of Poughkeepsie at their Delaware avenue hall. . . . There might be a slight bit of friction, inside the club, which if overcome, may help the Polish cagers to get back on the Glory Road. . . . Let's hope so. . . . Davey O'Brien is on the list to take himself a bride in the spring. . . . Young Calvin Griffith (next president of the Senators, if we hear thing right), started honeymooning in New York today. . . . Tonight it's the Kingston High variety against Ellenville at the Municipal Auditorium in a DUSO Basketball League contest. . . . It looks like a cinch for the Maroons, but who can tell? . . . Rose Manfro with her 527 still leads the Colonial Women for high three games. . . . And, Mary Butler's 209 tops the individuals. . . . Right now things look good for Joe Bliss in a heavyweight match at Albany's Capitol Arena next Monday. . . . Joe Jacobs had to borrow the dough off Tony Galento to help pay for the contract Frankie Zamarrin, Newark's sharp shooting light-heavyweight. . . . Congrats to the Elks for winning the first half championship of the National Division in the City Basketball League.

Pete Cappy, who was kayoed by Charlie Forezzi, is gunning for a return match at Albany to prove that it was just a lucky punch. . . . Pat Comiskey's hands are out of the casts and his physician says he'll be ready for a match with Steve Dudas in a month or two. . . . Ellsworth Vines and Wilmer Allison, the tennis stars, have entered the western and Texas open golf meets. . . . Bob Sisson of the Y. M. C. A. staff is walking on air. . . . He's extremely happy that the City Bowling tournament will be run on the alleys he had put in A-1 shape for the beginning of the season. . . . Take a look at the run-ways and you'll find out why he's so proud. . . . Mrs. Weldon McCluskey, wife of the "Y" physical director, deserved a big cheer for the supper she prepared Tuesday night. . . . And she got it, with Bing Van Etten leading the salvo. . . . Why, shouldn't he? . . . He ate six plates of "the finest beans he ever tasted." . . . Shipwreck Kelly, the old Kentucky girl star, and Brenda Frazier, last year's glamour girl, have been visiting the Stork Club in New York on 23 consecutive occasions. . . . Leo Durocher will sign his Dodge contract over the week-end. . . . He's expected to howl over the one year specification. . . . But Larry MacPhail will out-bellow him.

Bill Hopper Trims East by 100 to 74

Bill Hopper had little trouble with Bob East in their tournament match at Nick's last night defeating him, 100 to 74. A run of 20 helped Hopper to make the win more impressive. East's highest score was just one rack of 15. The match was one that has followed the tournament, following, Walt Jeghers, who has been playing some great pool in the matches and also in the tournament, meets Clifton Quick in a battle that should be one of the classics of the entire tournament. For several days, "pickers" have been waiting for the winner with the final census being that it's a toss up between the two.

Saints, Presbys Volley Winners

St. Joseph's team went away out in front of the Church Volleyball League last night at the Y. M. C. A. by defeating Fair Street. In the other scheduled contest the First Presbyterians trimmed Comforters 15-6, 15-9 and 16-14. St. Joseph's defeated Fair Street 15-9, 15-11 and 6-15. Players who featured individually were Jimmy Voelker and Ed Coughlin for St. Joseph's and Bob Murray and Chet Dolsen for the Presbyterians.

Patty Berg Rated as Best Woman Golfer in Country

By GAYLE TALBOT

Coral Gables, Fla., Feb. 1 (AP)—

Having heard very little of Patty Berg for the last seven months while the Minneapolis girl was absent from serious golf, the nation possibly will be interested in knowing how Patty has survived her inactivity.

The subject is thus backed into and approached with caution for the reason that there came a time in the late 1930's when there might have been a little too much written about the red-haired wonder girl of the links.

Not that Patty, a sweet girl, did not deserve every word written of her prowess from tee to green.

She did, because her record since she quit playing football with the neighborhood boys and took up golf had been uniformly wonderful.

Illness Interferes

But now Patty has had her appendix operation, she has missed

the national women's championship and seen the title fall to another fine golfer, Betty Jameson of San Antonio, and now she's back to elbow her way down the fairways again and take up where she left off.

Is she still the best woman golfer in the country—if not one worthy of ranking with the greatest of all time, including the almost immortal Joyce Wethered of England? The answer, after having watched Patty trim two worthy opponents yesterday in the Miami-Biltmore championships, and after having watched her best rivals in action also, would seem to be yes.

Patty still has a little something on the other girls, and she should win her fifth straight championship here.

Patty's two victories were the 22nd and 23rd straight that she has scored in the local classic, which possibly constitutes a record of some sort. In her first match yesterday she was only one over four for 15 holes, on a fairly long and tough course. That included one glaring six, where she over-drove on the seventh hole and rolled into a canal some 250 yards away.

Has Lost Nothing

Yes, Patty appears to have survived her operation and her absence from tournament golf. If anything, she appears to be hitting her drives a little longer, to be approaching a trifle more

Alliance Gospel Church Has Chalk Talk Series

H. W. Ortlip, chalk artist and portrait painter of Fort Lee, N. J., has been giving interesting chalk talks this week at the Alliance Gospel Church at Pine and Franklin streets.

J. Darby of Scranton, Pa., an accomplished musician, has been rendering some inspiring selections on his piano accordion. While Mr. Darby plays and various vocal selections are sung, Mr. Ortlip illustrated the songs by means of scenes portrayed with chalk.

Mr. Ortlip will be at the Alliance Church each evening this week. The services start promptly at 7:45 with an inspiring song service. He will be at the Sunday School on Sunday morning.

Hudson River Ice Is Now Two Feet

Ice fields in the Hudson river off Kingston Point are reported to be nearly two feet thick, and the river is frozen solid from Albany to Newburgh. Coast Guard cutters have kept a channel open in the river from New York.

Twenty years ago men were busy harvesting ice from the river, and the industry gave work to hundreds of men. The advent of artificial ice, however, gave the natural ice business a death blow.

As artificial ice gradually crowded the natural ice into the background the industry waned until today but little natural ice is harvested.

It was not so many years ago, however, when the Hudson river ice harvest was a $2,000,000 business.

At one time it was the most important winter industry in Kingston and vicinity putting into circulation approximately $100,000 each season.

District Scout Leaders to Meet

Scoutmasters and troop leaders of the Kingston district met at the council office Wednesday evening with the district chairman, George Matthews, and District Commissioner Harry Rigby. Plans were formulated for a district rally to be held about the middle of March, all troops in the district to participate.

Announcement was made of the Court of Honor scheduled for February 16 at the court house at 8 p. m., Troop No. 20 of Hurley to act as hosts. Plans were also discussed as to how each troop will celebrate anniversary week. All troops plan to attend their own church on Sunday morning, February 11, and then to join the union service that evening at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church with Professor William J. Reagan, of the Oakwood School of Poughkeepsie, as the speaker.

Other activities include displays in store windows, father and son parties and parents' parties will complete the week's activities.

The older scouts of the Northern district will meet Thursday evening at the Catskill High School to organize an Emergency Corps.

These scouts are to receive special training in first aid, firemanhood and safety so that they may be of greater service to their communities should an occasion arise.

The corps will also serve on special duty in connection with the Northern district rally to be held at the Catskill High School on March 2.

The leadership and training committee of the council will meet at the council office Friday evening, February 2, under the chairman, Dr. Roland Will, of New Paltz, and will draw up plans for training course to be offered to the scout leaders of the council during this year.

Franchise to Handle General Tire Agency

Local car owners have manifested interest in practical demonstrations of the qualities of the new General Dual 10 and Dual 8 tires that are being featured by the Pontiac Broadway Garage, which recently received a franchise to handle General tires. E. G. Boessneck, Jr., is proprietor of the garage at 708 Broadway.

Hundreds of persons have been visiting the company's newly opened agency, where special price inducements have been offered during the opening sale.

It is claimed that repeated tests have proved that these tires, distinguished by their multi-vented, squeegee tread, will stop a car on wet pavement in much less distance than ordinary tires will stop them on dry pavement. A windshield-wiper effect is obtained on wet pavement by these tires, when brakes are applied, as the narrow, flexible vanes of rubber squirm into a serpentine form which enables the adjacent vanes to cling to substantially dry pavement.

Spirit of 'Gay Nineties' Returns

The Sisterhood of the Temple Emanuel will present "The Gay Nineties" tonight at the Temple on Abel street. The photo above shows one of the acts in which five handsome chorus girls appear and dance. The chorus girls are, from left to right, Mrs. Harry Feldman, Mrs. Benjamin Levey, Mrs. Alfred D. Ronder, Mrs. Harold Mandell and Mrs. Sam N. Mann.

Meeting Is Held On Pension Plan

Wednesday afternoon members of the Kingston police department and members of the paid fire department met with Mayor C. J. Heiselman, Corporation Counsel John M. Cashin and a representative of the state retirement system at the city hall to discuss the state pension plan.

It is said that although the paid firemen and policemen have not taken a vote on the subject as yet, that a majority of the firemen and police do not favor the state pension plan, and prefer to continue the present local system of pensions.

Both the fire department and the police department have their own pension systems.

In order to drop the present systems and become members of the state retirement system a 60 per cent majority vote is required.

Many in County Changed Autos

Nearly 5,000 persons in Ulster county changed cars during 1939, either buying new cars or exchanging their present one for something presumably a little better. The figures were picked up at the Motor Vehicle Bureau this morning, where it was stated that a total of 4,931 registrations were issued during the year.
